Message from the Chair

by Julie Paque, PMS Chairman

At the Pacific Masters Swimming annual meeting on November 15th a new chairman will be elected to replace me. I am moving to Southern California to get married (to another swimmer, Michael Heather).

I have been involved with PMS for about a dozen years. Our organization has grown considerably during that time, thanks to the efforts of all the wonderful volunteers who have contributed their time and effort. This is an easy organization to lead, everyone has a common goal to further Masters Swimming in Northern California and Northern Nevada, and everyone pitches in to do the work that needs to be done.

This is evident in the membership growth we have seen. On September 15th, we surpassed our 1999 membership total, reaching 8825. We anticipate that we will be well over 9000 this year, an all time high.

Next year our goal is to reach the 10,000 mark. With Santa Clara hosting the 2001 Short Course National Championship (May 17-20, 2001) we have a good chance. They did a great job on their last Nationals, and we are looking forward to another fantastic meet (yes, I will be traveling back up the coast to attend!).

If you have an interest in participating in the governance of our organization, please consider volunteering. We have many one-time projects that need to be done, and always need people with good ideas. The annual meeting is open to any member, and each team gets a vote. For information on the time and location of our meetings go to www.pacificmasters.org. Stop by and find out what we're all about!

Joan is the current Officials chair of Pacific Masters Swimming. She has also served as Vice Chairman of Operations of Pac Masters. She is frequently seen working as a deck official at local and championship meets. Joan has also served as USMS historian.

Pacific is blessed with two great volunteers, It is great that United States Masters swimming has chosen to honor them with the 2000 Ransom Arthur Award (It will be formally awarded at the USMS convention this October in Orlando.

Keep The Machine Fueled

by Carol Berendsen

Ma•chine \me-'shen\ n. an instrument designed to transmit or modify the application of power, force, or motion; a person or organization that resembles a machine (as in being methodical, tireless...). These are among the many definitions of a machine. I guess, then, it's fair to say that in some sense of the word we are all machines. Like all machines we need a source of fuel, and for the human body that's food, in both solid and liquid forms. For the last several decades we've focused on what that fuel should (and shouldn't) be. There is another part of the fueling question that receives less attention...when we should fuel and refuel.

Since many masters swimmers prefer (or only have available) early morning workouts, and we know that breakfast is our most important meal of the day, how do we make our scheduling needs mesh with our fueling needs? According to sports nutritionist Jackie Berning in the June/July 1998 issue of Fitness Swimming,... "you've got to fuel up right, right from the start." Berning suggests three breakfasts. "Even if your workout is the first thing in the morning, do not hit the water with an entirely empty stomach." If you don't have time to eat something, drink some juice or sports drink. That's breakfast number one.

Breakfast number two comes right after you get out of the water, even before you hit the showers. "Make sure you have a good snack — a bagel or an energy bar..." There is a window of thirty to sixty minutes when you have to begin replacing the carbs, or it will take longer to eventually refuel your muscles. If you don't start refueling during that window of opportunity, you will begin the workday with a "fuel deficiency".

After snacking your way through the early morning, it's time for breakfast number three. "Here's where you add protein, so you are alert and functioning for the morning," says Berning. "It's also time to start getting the 40 nutrients you need every day to sustain life — carbs, of course, but protein from meat or dairy foods, and some fat. Make sure you also have some fruit and juice."

And...never forget the importance of drinking water. Staying hydrated should start as soon as you wake in the morning. Your first trip to the bathroom should include a drink of water. By the time your mouth tells you that you are thirsty, your muscles have been dehydrated for six hours!! And for swimmers, the 'dry mouth' signal is delayed because we train in an environment that keeps our mouth (but not our muscles) wet.

Now...go start your day with a great workout and lots of fuel...

New Memberships

New memberships and membership renewals for 2001 will be accepted as of November 1, 2000. Renew now before you throw this magazine away and save the time and inconvenience later. Dues remain unchanged at $25. It's the best bargain you could ask for! Please print clearly and use the name you plan to use for competing. Do not forget to sign your form. When you receive your 2001 membership card, make several copies of it. You will need a copy to submit with every event you enter. A copy will also provide you with a backup, in case yours is lost. Replacement cards are available for a $2 fee.

You may transfer to a new club at this time with no additional form, fee or waiting period. After you have registered for 2001, a signed transfer form and a $2 fee will be required. Cards are processed each Friday. If you do not receive your membership card within a reasonable time after you have mailed in your registration, please call the PMS Office at (415) 892- 0771.

You will notice on the bottom of the form an opportunity to contribute to two worthy causes. The USMS Foundation is a tax- deductible foundation, administered by USMS, to provide for research and projects which further the goals of Masters swimming. You may also donate to the International Swimming Hall of Fame (also tax-deductible) which promotes swimming world- wide.

Elsewhere in this magazine, you will find the 2001 PMS Events Calendar full of pool meets, open water events, and clinics. Take the challenge to participate in at least one of these offerings in 2001. We invite and encourage you to take advantage of our activities.
